

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

Do bilateral or international arms limitation or reduction agreements of the past offer any insight about the current proposed Iran non-proliferation agreement?

Do past arms control treaties offer insight about the proposed Iran nuclear agreement?

1. Do arms limitation agreements with enemies worry allies and weaken alliances?
2. Despite cheating, do even partially successful arms agreements offer benefits?
3. Does altruism ever explain why nations seek to make international arms agreements?
4. Does enforcement of arms agreements sometimes lead to tensions and war that might not otherwise arise?
5. Should arms agreements include wider accords about national behavior?
