

Acknowledgements

The present publication is based on the diaries of P. V. Vologodskii (seven notebooks), May 1918–August 1925, preserved in the Hoover Institution Archives and supplemented by selected diary entries for June 1918–October 1919 in possession of Z. P. Popova (Vologodskaia) of Castlecrag, Australia, and by draft notes for September–October 1918 held by the State Archive of the Russian Federation in Moscow. We wish to thank the archivists and staff, especially Charles Palm and S. V. Mironenko, of both archival repositories and Z. P. Popova for their interest and support of the project and for allowing us to reproduce the material presented in this book.

Many other institutions and individuals on four different continents have contributed to the realization of this publication in myriad ways. Our sincere thanks to the staffs of Joyner Library at East Carolina University; the Bancroft Library of the University of California in Berkeley and Stanford University's Cecil H. Green Library; the Library and Archives of the University of Sydney; the Russian State Archive of Socio-Political History, Russian State Library and the Russian State Historical Library in Moscow; the Russian State Historical Archive of St. Petersburg, the Russian National Library and the Russian State Historical Archive in St. Petersburg; the Slavonic Library of the National Library of the Czech Republic in Prague; the International Institute for Social History in Amsterdam; the Jewish National Library in Jerusalem; the Staatsbibliothek Preussischer Kulturbesitz and Bibliothek des Institutes für Geschichtswissenschaften der Humboldt-Universität in Berlin. We are most grateful to the following colleagues and friends for advice, expertise, research, and other assistance: A. V. Smolin, G. G. Lisitsina, and S. I. Varekhova (St. Petersburg); A. A. Khisamutdinov (Vladivostok); S. G. Allenov, V. M. Abakumov, T. V. Birenbaum, G. S. Lasunskaiia, and M. D. Karpachev (Voronezh); Marina Fuchs (Cologne); Viktor Knoll, Sandra gbersch@, Martin Beisswenger, Inna Dabisch, Marianne Albinsky, and L. Ia. Thomas (Berlin); John Stephan and Patricia Polansky (Hawaii); M. P. Tinkoff-Utechin, S. V. Utechin, Z. D. Bryner, and G. A. Tarala (Menlo Park, CA); Michael Palmer and David Hisle (Greenville, NC); Robert Conquest, Terence Emmons, Thomas Henriksen, Linda Wheeler, Polina Iliieva, and Lora Soroka (Stanford, CA); S. A. Krasil'nikov (Novosibirsk); G. P. Moiseeva, M. V. Sidorova, N. A. Sidorov, Iu. A. Petrov, L. Novikova, and L. P. Petrusheva (Moscow); P.A. Tribunskii (Riazan'); M. Kh. Griaznoff (Palo Alto, CA); R. A. Kofman and E. Kruk (Sydney).

We owe a great debt of gratitude to Molly Molloy at the Hoover Institution Library. She was of invaluable help in obtaining materials, biographical and bibliographical information. We are also indebted to Patricia Baker, Executive Editor at the Hoover Institution Press, and to Gareth Perkins, at Berkeley Slavic Specialties, for their advice and unfailing cooperation. Finally, special thanks are due to the Hoover Institution Archivist Elena Danielson, whose indefatigable enthusiasm was crucial in bringing the project to completion.

Generous support for research and publication of this work was provided by several institutions, including the German-American Academic Council Foundation through its TransCoop Program, the Division of Research and Graduate Studies at East Carolina University, and the Jack Gantz Foundation.

We acknowledge the use of material we first published in Otechestvennaia istoriia (Moscow) in November (no. 6) 2000 and January (no. 1) 2001.