

Contributors

R. RICHARD GEDDES is associate professor in the Department of Policy Analysis and Management at Cornell University. He holds PhD and MA degrees in economics from the University of Chicago. His written work has appeared in the American Economic Review, the Journal of Regulatory Economics, the Encyclopedia of Law and Economics, the Journal of Legal Studies, the Journal of Law, Economics, and Organization, and the Journal of Law and Economics. He was a Visiting Faculty Fellow at Yale Law School in 1995–1996 and a National Fellow at the Hoover Institution in 1999–2000. He is an adjunct scholar of the American Enterprise Institute.

DAVID E. M. SAPPINGTON holds the Lanzillotti-McKethan Eminent Scholar Chair in the Department of Economics at the University of Florida. He also serves as director of the University's Public Policy Research Center. Until recently, he was the Chief Economist at the Federal Communications Commission. Professor Sappington has written widely on numerous regulatory issues and is the author of two books and more than 80 articles published in leading economics journals. He has served on the editorial boards of several academic journals.

J. GREGORY SIDAK studies regulatory and antitrust policy concerning network industries. He is the F. K. Weyerhaeuser Fellow in Law and Economics Emeritus at the American Enterprise Institute and president and chief executive officer of Criterion Economics, L.L.C., an economic consulting firm based in Washington, D.C. Mr. Sidak served as deputy general counsel of the Federal Communications Commission from 1987 to 1989 and as senior counsel and economist to the Council of Economic Advisers in the Executive Office of the President from 1986 to 1987. He has written on a wide variety of regulatory and legal issues.

PETER J. WALLISON is a resident fellow at the American Enterprise Institute (AEI) and codirector of AEI's program on Financial Market Deregulation. He is an expert on financial services and banking law and has written widely in those areas. Before joining AEI, Mr. Wallison practiced at Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher in Washington, D.C. From June 1981 to January 1985, he was general counsel of the U.S. Treasury Department. During 1986 and 1987, he was counsel to the president of the United States.