

OVERVIEW

AUGUST 20-26, 2017

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The Summer Policy Boot Camp is a one week program focused on the economic, political, and social aspects of United States national and international public policy. This program offers top college students and recent graduates an opportunity to participate in focused seminars in economics, government, political science, and related fields led by renowned economists, seasoned national security professionals, and leading policy makers at Stanford University's Hoover Institution. Topics are chosen based on the immediate relevance to today's public policy challenges. Students will develop and apply critical reasoning skills to public policy formation. It's a great way to make connections to other aspiring professionals and jumpstart a career in public policy.

ELIGIBILITY

Current undergraduates and recent graduates

LOCATION

Hoover Institution, Stanford University

PROGRAM DATES

August 20-26, 2017

ALL APPLICATIONS FOR THE 2017 PROGRAM DUE MARCH 1, 2017

PROGRAM FEES

Tuition, food and lodging are free for all accepted applicants

$100 APPLICATION FEE

CORE TOPICS	FEATURED FACULTY INCLUDE
The Federal Budget	Michael J. Boskin, John F. Cogan
Economic Growth and Taxation	Robert Hall, Edward P. Lazear, Lee Ohanian
The Fed, Monetary Policy, Banking & Regulation	John H. Cochrane, Amit Seru, John B. Taylor
Energy and Environmental Policy	Terry Anderson, James O. Ellis Jr.
Social Security & Retirement	Thomas E. MaCurdy, Joshua D. Rauh, John Shoven
National Security	Stephen D. Krasner, Kori Schake
Health Care	Scott W. Atlas, John F. Cogan, Daniel P. Kessler
Education	Eric Hanushek, Caroline M. Hoxby, Terry M. Moe
Constitutional Foundations	Peter Berkowitz, Harvey C. Mansfield
Politics & Elections	David Brady, Morris P. Fiorina, Douglas Rivers

* FACULTY SUBJECT TO CHANGE

FOR APPLICATION AND MORE INFORMATION, VISIT WWW.HOOVER.ORG/HISBPC