

Acknowledgments

The Hoover Institution and the editors of this volume gratefully acknowledge The John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation and The William and Flora Hewlett Foundation for their generous support of our project that led to this book: Reykjavik Revisited: Steps Toward a World Free of Nuclear Weapons.

This book contains papers prepared for a conference of the same name held at the Hoover Institution at Stanford University on October 24–25, 2007, co-sponsored by the Nuclear Threat Initiative (NTI). The editors thank the authors for writing excellent papers, and subsequently editing them in response to discussions at the conference.

Many individuals have made valuable contributions to the success of this project and the preparation of this book. In particular we want to recognize the Hoover Institution Press, Brooke Anderson and Joan Rohlfing at NTI, and Paige Mathes, Bonnie Rose, and Susan Southworth at Hoover.