

KURT R. LEUBE

Research Fellow

Expertise: Austrian school of economics, law and economics, development of the new regions of Western Europe, cultural transformation of Eastern Europe

In addition to his Hoover appointment, Kurt Leube is guest professor at several leading European universities and serves as academic director of the Friedrich A. von Hayek Institute in Vienna, Austria. The holder of an A.J.D. degree in law and economics from the University of Salzburg, he is internationally recognized as one of the closest disciples of the late F. A. von Hayek and edited, with Hoover fellow Chiaki Nishiyama, The Essence of Hayek (1984). He also edited The Essence of Friedman (1987) and, with Hoover fellow Thomas Moore, The Essence of Stigler (1986). He is also editor in chief of the bilingual International Library of Austrian Economics series in Frankfurt, Germany.